GROUP INSURANCE FOR THE FIREMEN

Proposition, Which Has Been In Abeyance For Some Time, Discussed At Meeting of Council Last Night—Action Later

BOROUGH PAYS INSURANCE

Await Committee's Recommendations—Secretary of Board of Health Requests the Construction of a Bridge to Garbage Dump

In accord wit hthe regular monthly sessions of the body, much of council's time last night was taken up with listening to appeals for remedial agencies solicted by the citizenry. One of the most important phases of the meeting, however, when the body "got down to the business of the session," was that of group insurance for the firemen, a proposition which has been in the hands of council and the firemen for adjudication and consideration for some time. It was thought council as a whole, after the matter had been discussed, that no definite action could be taken until the committee conferring with the firemen make definite recommendations.

As we understand it, in part, this group insurance will cost the borough about $4 yearly for each of the some 50 firemen; and that benefits accruing from accidents are $15 a week, with a death benefit of something like $2,000. It was made emphate that the borough is required to pay the premium on the policies.

John N. O'Neil, secretary of the board of health, spoke of the need of the construction of a bridge to the garbage dump. Mr. O'Neil said that it was practically impossible to make access to the dump in the case of high waters. A proposition made that the bridge would be constructed at a cost of $360, was acted favorably upon by council and the work of its building will probably be started forthwith.

Mr. O'Neil also requested a change in the location of a light at St. Mary's church, the matter being referred to the light committee.

One of the citizens present said that ingress and egress could not be made in Apple alley, between Third and Fourth streets. The street commissioner assured the gentleman that the work required will receive his attention.

Improvement asked for in Crest avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets, was referred to the street committee.

Burgess J. Bryant Tussing reported the receipts of his office for the month of eptember to be $481; and the number of arrests as 108.

Tax Collector Fred W. Brady collected $41,857.33 in September; in August the amount collected was approximately $8,000, which makes a total for the two months of about $49,000.

Lights will be placed in a portion of the places in the hill district where needed, and at the intersection of Washington and Lincoln avenues.

COAL HEAD IS SHOT FROM AMBUSH; THOUGHT FATALLY

Elkins, W. Va., October 8—Lee Smallridge superintendent of the Rock Island Coal company, was believed fatally wounded when shot from ambush at the company's mine at Meriden near here today.

Two mine workers received slight flesh wounds when a fusillade of gunfire came from the road side just as the starting whistle blew.

Authorities said trouble had been pending since the Coal company announced recently its intention of operating on an open shop basis. The Rock Island mine has been a strong hold for Union labor in the Pygart valley for several years.

Stockdale Man Is Lodged In The County Jail

Consolata Serg, aged 40 years, who is accused of "shooting up" automobiles on the highway between Stockdale and Allenport, as recorded in the issue of the Mail of Saturday last, was lodged in the county jail at Washington yesterday. The name of the man as given us by Burgess William Graeser of Stockdale, who effected his arrest, is C. Sergi. He was arrested on information furnished by William Schultz before Justice Charles Smith of Stockdale. It is believed that Serg or Sergi is demented.

According to the report made by Mrs. Serg or Mrs. Sergi, her husband threatened to kill her; but it is not believed that she will press a charge against him on this account, at least until the mental condition of the man is determined.

WILLIS AT THE COUNTY SEAT

Congressman Henry W. Temple last night received a letter from Senator Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, stating that he will be in Washington Friday for a noon meeting. Senator Willis is now at the national capital and expects to leave there Thursday night and arrive in Pittsburgh in the early morning.

He is scheduled to speak at Donora Friday night at 8 o'clock at a Republican rally to be held in the opera house there. The meeting will be the big Republican rally of the river section and plans are being made [illegible] Senator Willis is one of the leaders of the senate and has been active in the campaign this fall. He is urging the re-election of President Coolidge and asking the voters to support the President by electing a Republican congress and senate to back him up.

The meeting to be held at Washington at noon is being arranged on short notice but every effort will be made to have a record crowd out to hear the senator. The meeting will probably be held in the ballroom of the George Washington hotel and will be open to the public.

The Local Jewry Are Observing Atonement Day

The observance of Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, was begun last night at sundown by the Jewish people of Charleroi. Today nearly all, if not all, the Jewish places of business, are closed and special services are being held. The 24 hours of fasting and prayer, which marks the observance of Yom Kippur, will end at sunset today.

WINDOW DRESSING CONTEST

Planned Feature On December 3—Prizes For Best Essays—Merchants Also Plan to Observe Hallowe'en This Month; J. B. Schafer Is Chairman

Yesterday noon a meeting of the Merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Duncan Berryman is chairman, was held at the Elks club. The primeval object of the gathering was to make plans for the forthcoming holiday season, and addresses and opinions were vouchsafed by those present on invitation of Chairman Berryman. Committees to promote the interests of the campaign were named, as follows:

On this day the merchants will close their windows for the day, opening them to the public gaze in the evening at 7 o'clock. There will be a special prize awarded for the best dressed window, but only those merchants who participate in the holiday advertising will be permitted to enter the contest.

In addition to the prize given as noted, there will be special prizes awarded to the best essays given by the students of the schools from essays, the subject to be "Why I Shop in Charleroi." These essays will have their basic thought evolved from the window dressings.

For the past four or five years, Charleroi has not formally observed or celebrated Hallowe'en. It was resolved by the Merchants' committee, at the luncheon yesterday, to observe the occasion this year, and to promulgate the celebration's interests, the following Hallowe'en committee, comprised of members of the Merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce, were selected to "push the ball along:" J. B. Schafer, chairman; Jack Teitelbaum, Paul Kimmins, S. L. Woodward, and Burgess J. Bryant Tussing. Prizes will be given for the most unique, the best, and the most comic costumes.

LOCAL STUDENTS DISPLAY ABILITY AS THESPIANS

A dramatic version of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" was cleverly presented in the auditorium of the Charleroi High school this morning during Chapel period by a number of students with the assistance of Joe [illegible] last year. Joe recited the story in his usual eloquent manner to musical accompaniment. Miss Marian Russell officiated at the piano, while Sherman Mason played the violin obligato. The characters were dressed to suit their [illegible] roles and, according to reports, looked quite "tough" and "hard."

Those who enacted the sketch were James Russell, as Dan McGrew; Eugene Watterson, Joe Pohan, Frank Arrigo, Edwin Hindmarsh. Eldred Orndorff, Annette Hannan and Robert Rickard.

Youth Badly Injured In An Accident At Y.&O Coal Mine

Joseph Benedetti, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Benedetti of 309 Crest avenue, employed in the Y. & O. Coal company mine at Twelfth street, was badly injured yesterday morning while at work in the mine and is suffering with a compound fracture of the hip and probably internal injuries, in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital.

The injured youth was pushing a car, it is said, and in some manner the youth slipped while going up a grade, the car crushing him between a pole and the car. He was immediately rushed to the local hospital, where he lay unconscious for three hours. Inquiry at the hospital this morning is to the effect that the young man is in a serious condition.

TRACE OF RADIO TROUBLE IS NOW THOUGHT REVEALED

Edward Schramko, who lives on Fallowfield avenue, near Ninth street, will possibly receive the $100 reward offered by George S. Might's Sons and Regan and Hormell, for locating the source of interference that has had the radio fans of Charleroi all wrought up for several months. After reading of the reward offered, Edward thought possibly the source of trouble might be traced to a violet ray machine owned by a resident of Fallowfield avenue. He called upon the owner of the machine and they began testing with owners of radio sets in different localities. E. Dainty, of George S. Might's Sons, was called in and further tests showed that the machine was transmitting and was being picked up in most any section of Charleroi.

The machine in question is being used in giving treatment for various ailments, and the owner was absolutely ignorant of the fact that he was interfering with the reception of radio progress. He has owned the machine since last March and each night gives treatments to his patients. When shown the effect on radio reception he stated that he would immediately take steps to have the trouble corrected, and it is thought that after a day or two no more inconvenience will be experienced from this source.

Radio fans in general are appreciative of the efforts on the part of George S. Might's Sons and Regan and Hormell for their offering the reward that brought about the clearing up of the atmosphere.

JONES TAKEN TO GREENSBURG

Wilbur Jones, who was in trouble over a board bill, which he is alleged to have "jumped," the matter being adjusted by his mother who liquidated the amount due, is again in trouble. Yesterday a constable from Greensburg came here for him and took him to Greensburg; this time, Jones is accused of embezzlement.

According to Chief of Police James A. Murphy, who effected the arrest of Jones, he has no definite home, but he formerly lived in the county seat of Westmoreland county.

ONE MAN INJURED IN CROSSING CRASH NEAR ASPINWALL

On man was hurt and had a narrow escape from death and another escaped injury by leaping from the machine when the locomotive drawing train No. 6783 on the Conemaugh division of the Pennsylvania railroad crashed into an automobile on the Ross grade crossing near Aspinwall at 8:20 o'clock this morning. The truck was demolished.

William Houston, of 719 Ninth street, Oakmont, was on the truck with D. Bale, of Sharpsburg, the driver, when the locomotive, traveling at a good rate of speed, crashed into the machine as it was crossing the tracks. Bale had leaped to safety as he saw the locomotive approaching, but Houston was thrown clear of the truck as the engine crashed into the machine.

HISTORIC CHURCH TO BE REPLACED BY A STORE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8—One of the few remaining churches in the downtown district is to be torn down to make way for a modern four-story store and office building. The property on which the old German Evangelical church now stands has been leased by a large five and ten cent store and will be occupied by them when the new building is completed. The deal involved about $9,000,000.

Two other old churches, Trinity Episcopal and the First Presbyterian on Sixth Avenue probably will stand for a good many years yet, as both these properties are heavily endowed and patronized by rich congregations.

POLICEMEN FIRE AT SUSPECTS

Emptying their revolvers at two men who had been acting in a suspicious manner beneath the Eleventh street railroad bridge in River avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh, at 2:30 o'clock this morning, Lieut. James McCormick and Policeman Joseph Lhotta apprehended the men after an exciting chase along River avenue for a quarter of a mile. None of the bullets took effect.

Lieut McCormick and Policeman Lhotta saw the two men talking to a third man and searching his pockets. As the officers approached, two of the men started to run. When the command of the officers to halt was ignored, the police opened fire.

Farewell Reception Is Given Dr. And Mrs. Greenlee Last Night

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Greenlee were tendered a farewell reception at the Methodist Episcopal church last night that was attended by a large crowd of the parishioners, the borough clergy and friends of the departing pastor and wife. W. D. Pollock, presided, and addresses were made by the Rev. Shields, Montgomery, Dixon, Long and King, in addition to that of Dr. Greenlee. One of the features was the presentation to Dr. and Mrs. Greenlee of a substantial purse, the gift of the laity ,the congregation and friends, the address of presentation being made by A. H. Bosson, and to which Rev. Greenlee voiced his appreciation in behalf of himself and Mrs. Greenlee.

The official board was represented by Theodore Lindsay, who prefaced his remarks of eulogy of Dr. Greenlee and the cordial relations which have been existent between all concerned by referring to himself as a "splinter in a board." His remarks, down-to-date and reminiscent, were appreciated and timely.

MUSICIAN INJURED IN A MISHAP

Joseph F. Replogle, instructor of music in the Monongahela Public schools, was badly injured Monday night while enroute to his home in Pittsburgh.

As the Monongahela-Pittsburgh pike is closed to traffic, Mr. Replogle found it necessary to go by way of Clairton and McKeesport, where several bad stretches of road exist. At a point near McKeesport, Mr. Replogle was driving behind a touring car only a short distance in the lead and both machines were going at a good rate of speed. Approaching a narrow stretch of road which lines the river the driver of the car ahead turned to the left to avoid a rut in the road and when he did a car traveling in the opposite direction struck the rear wheel of the first car, threw it across the road in front of Mr. Replogle, whose machine plowed into it. He suffered a deep gash across his cheek and chin which required four stitches to close and he was thrown against the steering wheel so forcibly that his face struck the wheel and several teeth were knocked out. He was removed to a physician's office and after receiving medical aid proceeded on his way home.

FAKE LIQUOR LABELS SEIZED BY DRY MEN

Whiskey valued at $75,000 was confiscated Monday in a raid upon a farm in Treveskyn on the Miller's run road, near Bridgeville, by a squad of prohibition enforcement officers under Divisional Chief C. J. Simmons, assisted by W. J. Flood chief of Bridgeville police and County Detective B. L. McMillan.

The liquor was in 35 barrels and cases, believed to have been stolen from the Guggenheimer distillery Simmons believes it was being diluted with distilled water to double the quantity before selling.

A truckload of distilled water was found near the house in which the whiskey was discovered, but the driver escaped before the officers arrived.

About 5,000 fake labels for use in making the barrels appear untampered with were found in the building, with 125 gallons of alcohol and a large quantity of mixing syrups.

This raid is one of the largest [illegible] of good whiskey that has been accomplished in the Pittsburgh district and many have located the source of most of the "rectified" liquor that is being sold.

[illegible] arrests were made, but prohibition officers say they have evidence that will implicate several residents of Treveskyn neighborhood, and [illegible] the service of warrants upon the guilty persons within a few days.

The raiding party swooped down upon the plant after a three-day vigil in which they satisfied themselves that "something queer" was going on inside the building. The officers had search warrants, it is said, prepared Saturday, by a United States commissioner of the Pittsburgh district.

FEWER REGISTER THAN IN THE YEARS 1922-23

Figures compiled by the commissioners' office show that the total registration for Washington county for the November election is 68,345.

This is less than it was last year or the year before. The figures for 1923 were 70,557 and for 1922 they were 69,286. The falling off is due to the small registration in the city of Washington where, under personal registration, the total was 4,889, or 7,294 less than 1923 when the total registration was 11,183. In Monongahela, where personal registration also obtains, the registration this year was about 400 in excess of last year's figures.

Pittsburgh, October 8.—Dr. Alfred L. Hall-Quest, director of extension work at the University of Pittsburgh, returned to his office here today. He refused to comment on the matter of divorcing his wife so that she could be free to marry her "perfect love."

Prof. Hall-Quest divorced his wife in Chicago yesterday on grounds of desertion, claiming she eloped with an un-named Cincinnati man in refusing to reveal the identity of the "perfect lover" for whom his wife gave up all. Hall-Quest said he desired to shield his wife from any unpleasantness that she might suffer if the name was revealed.

Asked how he felt to be deserted for another man, Dr. Hall-Quest said: "My feelings are just as [illegible] as any other person's might be in a similar case."

Washington Upsets The Dope By Winning Yesterday--- Honors Are Still Uncertain

The "goose" hung high in Washington yesterday, for Leon Goslin, slugging pride of the Senators and favorite of their fans, clubbed the New York Giants into defeat yesterday almost single-handed and put the American League champions back in the thick of one of baseball's greatest championship battles.

Another record-breaking crowd, exceeding 50,000 all told, stormed the Polo Grounds and cheered the Senators as they pulled themselves together in spite of a makeshift infield caused by the loss of Peckinpaugh, battered three Giant pitchers and captured the fourth game of the 1924 world's series by a score of 7 to 4, the most decisive verdict of any game so far.

The series now stands at two-all and the fifth game, which is likely to witness a repetition of the opening struggle between Walter Johnson, the Senators' wonderful righthand veterans and Art Nehf, brilliant Giant southpaw, will be played today at the Polo Grounds. The battleground will shift back to Washington Thursday, for a sixth game is assured with a likelihood the series will go the limit of seven games.

Five of the Senators' runs yesterday, alone enough to clinch the game, were accounted for by "Goose" Goslin, who hammered out four hits in as many times at bat, includig his second homer of the series which scored to runs ahead of him in the third inning and gave Washington a lead which it never relinquished. Score by innings:

Earned runs—Washington 6, New York 2.

Coach Al Wierman, of Monongahela Hi, sent his players through a hard scrimmage yesterday afternoon, which resulted in seven of his men being badly used up but their hurts will not keep them out of the game Saturday with Clairton on the latter's gridiron.

Coach Wierman is also conducting blackboard drills and the boys are rounding into shape.

Clyde Smith, who won the game against Bellevue last Friday, was pretty badly used up in scrimmage sessions but he will be on hand for practice this afternoon. Clairton is pointed for the game and with the strongest team in years, which defeated McKeesport badly, will be out to humiliate the Monongahela eleven, Friday, October 10.

WHAT CHARLEROI BOYS ARE DOING WITH CALIFORNIA

Interest in football in Charleroi largely centers on the achievements of the Charleroi High School team, but there are four Charleroi boys playing with California Normal, which aggregation defeated on the Kiski grounds last Saturday the Kiski warriors by a score of 12-5. What the Charleroi boys, Messrs. Bruce, Brown, Weaver and Aschman did in the contest, is herewith given:

Bruce was the only man who did not come out of the Kiski game in good shape. He dislocated a cartilage in his right knee, after a brilliant return of a punt in the last quarter.

Brown missed two pretty field goals by inches, both from the 45-yard line.

Weaver made the winning possible by taking out the safety man on Kennedy's mad dash of 35 yards to the Kiski 4-yard line.

Aschman, albeit he was handicapped by a badly bruised shoulder, played the entire game and starred as usual.

California is practicing hard this week getting ready for the hard battle with Pitt Frosh as preliminary to the West Virginia-University Pitt clash on aturday of this week.

The Normal will be seen in action at the Charleroi base ball park on October 17, when they meet the Fairmont Normal aggregation here.

Homes for Aged

Accounts are not very definite concerning the establishment of the first home exclusively for the aged. In England in early days and in Germany at the end of the Seventeenth century there were hospitals to which the aged and infirm could go. Such a hospital was founded by St. Cross near Winchester, England, in 1136, and another, the Coningsby hospital at Hereford, was founded in 1614.

TOM MIX TO BE SEEN HERE IN A DEATH-DEFYING ROLE

Defying death by riding amidst a drove of wild horses, under the belly of Tony, his famous horse, to escape his pursuers, Tom Mix will burst into the Majestic theater tomorrow for a one day engagement of "Mile-a-Minute Romeo," his most recent William Fox effort.

The story is by Max Brand, an author who has long been noted for ability in western dramas. It provides Mix with opportunity to display those talents by which he has become so widely recognized.

An erring father, a daughter with romantic aspirations, two villians instead of the customary one, and Tom Mix, form the basis of this production's merits. Comedy relief is provided in scenes showing a cross-country run staged by Tom Mix.

Betty Jewel, J. Gordon Russel, James Mason, Duke Lee and James Quinn are the principal players. The production was directed by Lambert Hillyer.

The torrid zone has a greater rainfall than any other portion of the world, due to the cloud ring that hovers over it. Along the line of the equator thunder-showers are of almost daily occurrence.

The Higher, the Colder

Temperature decreases with elevation because the air gets drier and higher as we ascend and quickly loses the sun's heat. Nearer the earth the heat is held by the heavy moist air that rests on it.

Establishes Institute to Insure U. S. Adequate Food Supply In 2024

Insuring an adequate food supply to the United States a century hence, when its population probably will be doubled, is the work assigned to the Thompson Institute for Plant Research, in New York, by its founder, William Boyce Thompson (right), New York financier and philanthropist. The institute, a view of which is shown above, has just begun its work, with Dr. William Crocker (left) as director.

Boston's Proud Position

On being offered a Boston job the editor of a humorous weekly proceeded to take the alleged humorist to task in no uncertain manner. "I don't see any point to these whams about the highbrow possibilities of Boston" declared the editor. "They're out of date, to say the least. Boston has won her share of pennants and was once the home of John L. Sullivan."

England's Half in Cities

Nearly half of England's 18,500,000 people live in cities of more than 50,000 population. The fact has been given new attention as a result of the after-war employment problem which confronted the country. Incidentally, Durham is the only English county in which the men outnumber the women.

Shelter for Travelers

A "dak bungalow" (rarely a house) is a shelter for the accommodation of travelers at a station on a dak route. The Anglo-Indian word "dak" or "dawk" means "a post or transport by relays of men or horses for carrying mails etc, or passengers in palanquins."

Earth's Rotation

It is generally supposed that the nebular or planetesimal matter from which the solar system has developed possessed an original motion of rotation around an axis nearly at right angles to the plane of the ecliptic. The earth and the planets in general are supposed still to revolve and to rotate in the same direction as that of the rotation of the original mass.

Registers Salt in Sea

Anything is to be expected of Chicago after the grave consideration given some of the arguments in behalf of Leopold and Loeb. A young thief of $772,000 in securities from the bank employing him has been acquitted as a victim of "bond intoxication." On the same principle the petty thief caught in a hen-house could be excused on the ground of "chicken intoxication."

Many Volcanic Craters in the United States

When we think of volcanoes we generally associate them with some foreign country, but here in our own domain we have within a comparatively restricted area a group of 63 volcanic craters. This is in Idaho and the place is called the "Craters of the Moon" because the landscape is so cold looking and so barren of vegetation that it resembles the landscape of the moon as it seems to us when viewed through a telescope. While it is barren it is not without color, for there is considerable variation in the tints of the ground which is covered with the "frozen" lava which flowed from these craters a few hundred years ago. There is one field which is called the Blue Dragon which is lava of a beautiful aurelean tint and with a polish as if it had been varnished. There are cracks in the deposit at regular intervals and all of similar shape, which makes the mass resemble the scales of a great dragon. These volcanic mounds are of various heights and some of interesting formation, with considerable variation as to color. This field is about three miles wide and thirty long and has been recently dedicated to the purposes of a public park. While it is not exactly accessible, it is not a difficult place to get at and at the present time it is little known. It is located between Cary and Arco.

Rich Man Might Better Have Forgotten Penny

In his "Queer Things About London," Mr. C. G. Harper tells the following story:

On the north side of Piccadilly is that famous labyrinth of expensive, exceedingly select bachelor chambers, dating from about 1804 and known to most people as "The Albany."

By the smart set who reside there, however, it is accounted absurd to speak or write of "The" Albany. If you perpetuate that grave error, you cannot be "one of us."

Albany has always been affected, as a place of residence, by men of rank and fashion. Herein dwelt the millionaire Baron Meyer de Rothschild, and coming from his luxurious chambers one day he dropped a penny on the pavement outside.

He sought long and anxiously for the coin; but vainly, for it had rolled down a grating. Resuming an upright position he remarked sadly on the fleeting nature of riches. Meanwhile a pickpocket had relieved him of his watch.

What the Dial Was For

"I see that you don't know how to tune this set," the friend observed, as he began adjusting the knobs. "But don't let that worry you, old man; we all have to learn, you know. Now," he continued, "did you notice the increased volume of sound as I turned the last dial? Just put the finishing touches on reception as it were. Of course, one cannot teach you the whole game of reception at one sitting, but I will say this much—you would do well to pay particular attention to that dial if you want good quality and plenty of volume. That is one of the most sensitive controls. Condenser, I suppose?"

"No, Bill," replied the host. "You see, it is like this. I bored an extra hole in the panel by mistake and I put a knob there to hide it. It does not control anything, except the imagination."—Wireless Age.

The "One-Hoss" Shay

"My grandfather and grandmother once had an antique [illegible], driven by a man even older than the cab, whose horse was a greater age than all of them combined, to pay a Sunday afternoon call in a London square nearby. On its funereal way from house to house, the bottom fell out of the cab, and as the aged man on the box was too deaf to hear the by no means unviolent expostulation of the hot-tempered old gentleman and the cries of his small and timid spouse, there was nothing for them to do but to run along inside. The laughter of those who gazed with an abandonment of joy at this most unusual sight must have done much to break the gloom of that early Victorian Sabbath."—From "Unwritten History," by Cosmo Hamilton.

Believed Part of It

The men and officers of the navy are known all over the world for their smart appearance, and it was for this reason that one of the officers on board a battleship was rather disgusted at the untidy appearance of a certain midshipman.

One morning the "middy" strolled into the wardroom wearing a collar that was, to say the least of it, extremely soiled. This was too much for the officer and he decided to tackle the young man on the matter.

"Look here," he said, "you ought not to come in here wearing a filthy collar like that round your neck."

"Filthy, sir," replied the middy: "I assure you this collar was washed ashore only yesterday."

"I don't doubt that," was the quiet reply, "but from which wreck?"

New Dish

The young man who was accustomed to having an early breakfast every day was absent one morning, having gone to see his wife off on an early train.

Returning to the house some time later he said to the cook:

"Well, Jane, I have no spouse this morning."

"'Tain't my fault, suh," she replied, indignantly. "I sho' cooked it fo' yuh. But you jes' wouldn't come eat it."

MEETING MOMENTOUS.

The meeting or luncheon of the Charleroi merchants held yesterday for purpose of planning for the forthcoming holiday advertising campaign was momentous, in that not only business men themselves have interests at stake, but incidentally, the public must be interested, and has something at stake.

In the very near future Santa Claus will again be a welcome visitor to Charleroi. To welcome him is the province as it is the pleasure of the people of the community. The business man welcomes Santa's coming, for to all of them, directly and indirectly, they are benefited by the incoming of Yuletide. And this luncheon of the merchants was for the purpose of arriving at a conclusion of just the best method which could be used by them to let the public know what they have to sell and the advantages to be gained by the people doing their trading here at home, where it rightfully belongs.

That the merchants will have their shelves filled with the best of holiday goods, cannot be successfully gainsayed. They will prepare as of yore in giving their patrons and the public the best of everything at prices which should guarantee its patronage. This year has been a dull one in the borough; many men have not been and even are not now, employed, and how to save their husband's dollar, will be an effort on the part of the wise housewife. By home-buying the customer gains interest, the advance, and the guarantee of the home merchant, whose interest it is to see that his trade gets value received. If people do their trading in Pittsburgh or elsewhere, interest on the part of those from whom they buy, ceases with the purchase. At home the case is different; the local merchant realizes the value of your friendship and custom, and he is too wise to victimize his trade by selling them goods that hasn't the trademark of value behind them.

BEST WISHES FOR BOTH.

With the incoming of the Rev. J. E. Morrison, and the outgoing from our midst of the Rev. Dr. Elmer H. Greenlee, the Mail extends its best wishes to each. Advance information of the new pastor of the Charleroi Methodist Episcopal church are decidedly complimentary, and insofar as the Rev. Greenlee is concerned, his good work here and the popular esteem in which he is held, are alike wellknown.

The farewell testimonial to Dr. and Mrs. Greenlee held in the church edifice last night but cemented the bonds of friendship which exist between the laity and congregation, the departing pastor, and his estimable wife.

Dr. Greenlee, during his pastorate here, has not made his calling teem of the secular, but rather he has labored zealously in the great cause which he represents. The farewell testimonial as given last night is attestation that his labors here are appreciated, as were those of Mrs. Greenlee, who has been a coworker with him in the things which make for life betterment.

Rev. Morrison comes to Charleroi with an enviable record as the King's ambassador, and in his endeavors to carry on the good work of his predecessor, he should and doubtless will have, the aid and sympathy of the laity and congregation of the local church.

It is reported that all of the world fliers are in debt, the $1250 expense money allowed by the government being insufficient, and that a fund of $7500 for their benefit has been started at Dayton, Ohio. Congress must not have seen any votes in the world flight.

As 100 average men buy in a year only 62 suits, 52 hats and 18 pairs of gloves, at the annual meeting of the national association of retail clothiers and furnishers, a drive was proposed to force men to wear more clothes and thus put an end to so [illegible] of suffers.

While the representatives of fifty-four nations assembled at Geneva were earnestly discussing means to cool the passions of war before they burst into flame it was rather unfortunate that our Secretary of the navy should get to his feet on the Pacific coast and preach the superior value of plenty of cold steel in such emergencies. And this is thought to be perhaps the most important among the various reasons assigned for the Secretary's hasty recall to Washington.

"Roscoe Conkling Bruce, a Harvard graduate and son of former Senator Blanche K. Bruce, follows William H. Lewis, another well known negro leader, graduate of Amherst and the Harvard law school, in coming out for Davis on the Klan issue."— Springfield Republican. The Senator Bruce referred to—the only negro to sit in the United States Senate, was elected to that office from Louisiana when the State was under carpetbag and negro rule after the war of 1861-5.

A famous Hindoo juggler trick, supposedly accomplished by hypnotizing the audience, did not succeed at the Wembly Exhibition. The juggler throws a rope into the air, climbs up it, disappears, then drops dismembered into a basket, from which presently he steps forth whole and smiling. [illegible] of this came off at Wembly because—it is suggested—the critical newspaper men present could not be hypnotized.

The lawyer for the Chicago youth who stole $772,000 in securities from the bank employing him argued that if the "benefit of the doubt can be resolved in favor of the sons of the rich, we ask you to do the same thing for the son of a poor man." And so the "poor" boy was acquitted as a victim of an entirely new disease called "bond intoxication."

In the opinion of the New York Journal of Commerce, "the present third party is a very direct and very representative successor of the third party movement of 1912, has many of the same aims and is dominated by personal ambition in the same way." And doubtless it will likewise live for only a brief season.

Sir Basil Zaharoff at the age of 74 has married Maria del Pilar Antonia Angela Patroochino Simona de Maguiroy Beruete, Duchess of Marquent and Villa franca del las Caballeros. To wed such an armful or mouthful would be distinction enough even if Sir Basil were not already quite a distinguished man.

It is not good policy for party managers either to exhibit over-confidence or to let it be suspected that they fear defeat. The first encourages indolent friends to stay away from the polls; the second is apt to hand considerable numbers of "floaters" over to the other party.

Circumstances and publicity would appear to be making little Jackie Coogan old before his time. Jocularly asked by a London reporter when he expected to retire the child solemnly replied: "That is in the future. My motto is, 'let conscience be your guide.'"

"Well," said the lawyer, "have you decided to take my advice and pay this bill of mine?" "Y-e-s," stammered the client. "Very well," said the lawyer. "Then [illegible] ordered him to add "5£ to Mr. Smith's bill." for further advice.—London Tit-Bits.

Automobile Replaces Royal Coach for Maharajah in India

Mounted on a chassis that has a wheelbase of 175 inches, one of the world's most luxurious automobiles has been delivered to the Maharajah of Alwar. It is designed after the pattern of the formal horse-drawn landau used by the ruler and takes its place as a state coach.

The body seats four persons and is suspended on C-springs, the lower extremities of which are continued to meet the underside of the carriage and thus prevent excessive swing or rolling while giving complete isolation from road shocks and jars.

There is said to be no sense of mechanical propulsion, the feeling being more that of floating than of riding on wheels. Four side lamps are lighted by electricity.

Hole Ten Miles Deep is Suggested to Utilize Earth's Heat

Utilization of the internal heat of the earth as a source of power is worth undertaking as an international scientific enterprise, according to E. W. Rice, Jr., honorary chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric company, at the meeting of the World Power conference in London. He suggested the boring of a great hole, ten or twelve miles deep, in some convenient or suitable place to use this heat.

The cost of this experiment, he said, would be trivial compared with the value of the possible information which might be gained by the investigation into this unexplored region of the earth.

Making Use of the Shark

Formerly regarded as an undesirable inhabitant of the deep, feared when alive and useless when dead, the shark lately has come into esteem in commercial circles. Oil from its liver is said to have the same medicinal qualities as that from the cod, shark-fin soup is appreciated by the Chinese and its eyes, after they have been boiled and treated, leave a hard residue which forms a sort of opalescent substance for making ornaments and jewelry.

The outer skin is used for polishing hardwoods and ivory, while the inner layers are tanned into serviceable leather of different shades and qualities. It is practically waterproof and does not crack, and is being employed extensively in the manufacture of purses, traveling bags and belts.

An eastern radio fan has made use of a 25-foot "man eater" in a novel way by utilizing its head as a loud speaker for his receiving set.

A Broom and Brush Holder for the Kitchen Porch

Brooms and brushes are usually set up in a corner on the porch when not in use, but this causes the bristles or hairs to bend over permanently, which greatly impairs the usefulness of these articles. This can be prevented by providing a brush and broom holder of the kind shown in the drawing.

This holder adds considerably to the neat appearance of the porch and provides an orderly arrangement so that any brush, broom or mop can instantly be found when needed. The construction of this holder is clearly shown in the drawing. It is made of ¾-in. boards about 8 in. wide. The length should be about 3 ft. and the height about the same.

A number of holes are drilled through the two shelves, those in the upper shelf being directly above those in the lower shelf, permitting the handles of brooms to be set up vertically. Hooks, driven into the edges of the shelves and sides as indicated, hold the smaller brushes.

Grease or vaseline, rubbed on the hands before starting a dirty job, will keep the dirt out of the pores, and enable the hands to be cleaned much more easily afterward.

Man Who Hates Flowers Cornered by a Woman

"Persons who love flowers," complained the man who doesn't, says a writer in the New York Sun and Globe, "are the most inconsiderate beings in the world.

"I hate flowers, you know. I loathe and despise 'em. Maybe I'm depraved, but that's my honest taste. I try to like them, but I can't. Looking at them isn't so bad, but I detest the smell of them; it makes me sick.

"But does anybody think of this who happens to have flowers? Let some women get flowers in their hands and immediately they begin sticking them into the noses of everybody in sight and demanding to know if they aren't the sweetest things ever. It doesn't do any good to try to wriggle away or hold your head back or turn your cheek into the flowers instead of your nose. Those women can aim at a pair of nostrils ten feet away and never miss.

"You hold your breath in self-defense. Your poor nose you permit to lie in the suffocating mess for what you consider a reasonable length of time. Then you withdraw it smiling, and murmuring that they certainly are the sweetest things ever. You just start to breathe again, and then the woman thrusts those obnoxious growths right smack at your nose again."—New York Sun and Globe.

Chestnut Venders Join Ranks of Profiteers

The chestnut venders with their saucepans and charcoal fires are perhaps the latest recruits to the ranks of the profiteers. Doubtless they can present excellent economic arguments to justify the high price of chestnuts this season. To the average man on the street, however, the new scale of prices for roast chestnuts just announced comes as a shock. Within the last few days scores of these venders have taken their places once more on the street corners and one rushes to them as to an old friend. A glance at the familiar stand reveals the same little tin measure as of old, but the good old days of five-cent purchases are gone. The smallest of the measures often are a quarter, and a slightly larger size is 40 cents. The roast chestnut has become a luxury. Meanwhile the proportion of worms has increased. After emptying a bag of chestnuts the other day, it was discovered that the worms had cost nearly a nickel apiece.—New York Times.

Women Surely Have Keen Sense of Money Values

If the average woman were without a sense of money values, as charged by a budget expert, the average American family would have less money in the bank than it has. Eliminating the girl who lives at home and can spend her earnings for pretty things, and whose extravagance is one of the manifestations of her youth, it would have been fairer to say the average housewife of America has a very keen appreciation of the value of money and how hard it is for the husband to earn it. It is probably quite true that women do not budget their expenses; neither did the great United States government until a few years ago. If the budget expert would go into the stores patronized by the wives of wage earners and note with what care and anxiety the customers spend their money and how anxious they are to get full value, she might revise her judgment a bit. With due respect to the paragraphers, the women are shrewd buyers. The hardly saved dollars which bulk so large in savings fund reports and bank deposits are where they are because the women of the country have put them there, often against the will of their husbands. The average man is a much swifter spender than a woman, and despite the jokes of the paragraphers and comic artists, all women do not throw away money on innumerable hats and gowns. The budget expert did less than justice to her own sex when she criticized their financial acumen.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Javanese Houses by No Means Things of Beauty

The clay walls which surround a Balinese farm in Java are usually two or three meters high. Very often they rest upon a foundation of stones and are covered with a heavy layer of rushes which are to protect them from destructive tropical rains. A door in the wall is closed at night with wooden or bamboo planks, the Detroit News states.

The walls around farms of "poenggavas" or district mayors, are usually built of more substantial material. The same is true of the homes of Balinese princes. Yet while these latter houses may be elaborately decorated they resemble the more humble dwellings in that they are exceedingly filthy. The numerous members of the family—parents, brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews, married or unmarried—live in a single house.

The pigs, dogs and goats found on every Balinese farm are kept in a separate hut. The loan huts are usually built upon wooden elevations and are exceedingly ugly and ungainly.

On each farm one will also find [illegible] to house the fowls.

On Road to Boneyard.

"I have just finished a treatment of your wonderful remedy and can say it has done wonders for me already. For the past five years I have been unable to eat any but the lightest food and that but sparingly, as any food caused me to bloat with gas. I was reduced to a skeleton of ninety pounds, and was on the road to the boneyard. A friend in Birmingham sent me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble judging from what it brought from me and the way I feel." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

At a late hour a edlicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

The time was enjoyably spent in playing 500, the favors being awarded to Miss Edith Keys, Mrs. Grace Dill and Miss Louis Breuer. All arrangements have been completed and everything is in readiness for the annual rummage sale to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Charleroi-Monessen hospital. The proceeds are for the benefit of the hospital and every one is urged to help in any way they can.

Mrs. John Pineyard very delightfully entertained the members of the Home and Hospital club at her home in Fourth street, North Charleroi Tuesday evening. Refuge in Silence

Mrs. Scrubbs, whose highly colored imagination was well known in her neighborhood, was called as a witness in a damage suit.

"The evidence which you will give to the court shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," said the clerk.

"Yes," quavered Mrs. Scrubbs, now thoroughly frightened and unable to think of one word of the story she had resolved to tell—a story in which she was the heroine.

"Well," asked the judge, "what have you got to say about the case?"

"Well, judge," she replied, "with the limitations I've just had put on me, I don't think I've anything at all to say!"

Rock Formations

Decomposed rock can be solidified again either by aplying great pressure or by injecting cement, or by doing both. Thus sands are formed into sandstones, clays become shales and calcareous deposits yield limestone. Aside from their cementing materials, sandstones differ in composition exactly as did the sands of which they are composed. Sandstone, according to the United States geological survey, may be nearly pure quartz, or quartz and feldspar, or quartz, feldspar and mica, and it may vary in texture from the fine to the coarse. Some sandstone is so coarse that it will hold six quarts of water to the cubic foot, and underground deposits of such sandstone form excellent reservoirs, which may yield a never-failing supply of water.

Find Bronze in Copper

Chemical analyses have revealed that much of the so-called bronze found in ancient ruins or monuments is not bronze at all but copper of a rather high degree of purity considering the facilities for smelting the metal in those early days. This is especially the case with such objects found in the oldest Egyptian and Mesopotamian remains. On the other hand the bronze bands from the gates of the palace of Shalmanesir II. are really bronze, containing about 9 per cent of tin. Copper, rather than bronze, seems to have been the earliest used metal. Iron was known to the ancient Egyptians but was so rare and costly that it was used in jewelry

LESSON NO. 2

THE PROPER USE OF LIGHT HOW WE SEE

Objects are seen by the light that falls upon them and is reflected to our eyes. A dark object reflects but little of the light that falls upon it—perhaps less than one-fourth; a light colored object reflects a large part of the light—perhaps three-quarters.

If we are to see objects, the light must fall upon them and be reflected from them. The more darkly they are colored, the more light is needed to enable us to see them. The light that falls on objects which we wish to see may be termed useful light. Most electric lamp bulbs when used without shades or reflectors throw out light in all directions—just as much to the ceiling and walls of a room as down to the table top. Well designed shades are made so that they not only soften the light, but also reflect some light that would otherwise be wasted and direct it downward and outward to the objects that we wish to see.

GLOOM

Proper lighting requires two things: first, that there be enough light so that the eye can see quickly and easily; and second, that this light be shaded and so placed in the room that the eye is not strained by glare. Many homes have soft, shaded light that is too dim for good vision; others have enough light but harmful glare is a part of it; too few homes have plenty of light without glare, which is necessary for proper lighting and the protection of eyesight.

The eye is truly a wonderful organ. Because it does not always immediately complain, we often make it work under great difficulty, and strain it.

Have you ever stopped reading because of a feeling of discomfort? You have a headache without any reason for it that you can think of, or your eyes feel tired, or you find that you cannot fix your attention on your book or paper. You may find later that these are signs you were straining your eyes.

We can see under a dim light, but we can see more easily and more quickly if we have more light. When we live day after day with too little light, we are likely to find that our eyesight is affected, and that we may need glasses. Then we know we have strained our eyes until they cannot do their work without help.

DECORATE WITH LIGHT

Up to this point we have thought of lighting only as it helps us to see easily—in other words, as it is useful. Of course, this is very important in every room in the home, and everywhere else. But when we light our home, we want the lighting to make each room pleasant and attractive, and our lighting, except for the work rooms (the kitchen, the laundry, the basement and attic), should be as much of a decoration or ornament as the pictures and rugs and curtains.

Lighting equipment may be ornamental and decorative, and at the same time it can be made in such a way that it will properly light the room. Much of the lighting equipment in use today can be greatly improved by using shades that are longer, so that the bulb is completely hidden from the eye and denser, so that no extremely bright spot appears in the center of them.

A FEW CAUTIONS

Here are a few cautions that will help you protect your eyes:

Don't judge the amount of light in a room by the brightness of the bare, unshaded bulbs. That is the indication of glare.

Don't expose your eyes to unshaded lights. That may cause eye-strain.

Don't read while facing a bright light or a sunny window. Have the light come from beside you or over your shoulder.

Don't try to read in a dim light that tires your eyes.

Don't let your lighting equipment get dirty. Clean it regularly. Dust and dirt may cause you to lose as much as one-half or even three-fifths of the light that the bulbs produce and that you are paying for.

Don't depend on taking out light bulbs to connect appliances and portable lamps. Have convenience outlets put in for this purpose.

Don't be indifferent to the preservation of your eyesight.

LAFOLLETTE'S PLAN WOULD DEMORALIZE THE SCHOOL SYSTEM

Demoralization of the public school system of the United States will result if LaFollette is elected and his plan of Government ownership of railroads adopted.

This is the belief of former Governor E. C. Stokes, of New Jersey, who says that the loss in revenue to the schools from the roads, a large part of whose taxes as private concerns now goes toward education, will run into the millions by reason of the fact that the roads, if under federal ownership, will be tax exempt.

Governor Stokes cited his point in letter to John Enright, Commissioner of Education, of New Jersey. "Last year," he said, "the railroads, through taxes, paid the public school system of New Jersey $1,580,817. If the railroads become Government owned this revenue would be lost and the public school educational system of the State would suffer accordingly.

"As one who had something to do with the framing of the New Jersey State school law," continued Governor Stokes, "and as the author of the law to dedicate the increase of revenue from the railroad equal tax law to the support of the public schools, I make bold to ask you to call the attention of the State Board of Education to the effect upon the school revenues in the event of the adoption of the La Follette plan for Government ownership of railroads.

"In all the States of the Union the railroads contribute largely to the relief of the individual taxpayer's burden in the way of revenues. In each State the schools, directly or indirectly are benefited by the taxes paid by private owned railroad corporations. The loss of these revenues would seriously affect the fiscal condition of the schools and would add a great burden to the already heavily burdened individual tax payers.

"The amount the railroads have contributed to the schools in New Jersey runs into many millions and this revenue provides New Jersey with efficient teachers and better school facilities for the children of the community. In the event of Government ownership of the roads, the roads as Federal property, would not be subject to taxation, state or local, and these revenues, running into the millions, would be lost.

"It would seem to me that the matter is of such importance that the State School Board might properly call the attention of the school teachers, local Boards of Education, and the parents of school children to the menace that threatens them from Government owned railroads."

POINTERS FOR THOSE RECOVERING FROM A MALADY

Harrisburg, October 8.—Dr. Edgar T. Shields, chief of the division of tuberculosis clinics of the state department of health today outlined a few important principles regarding convalescence from pulmonary tuberculosis. The patient, he says, will greatly profit by the following:

2. Only by the daily expenditure of less energy than you accumulate can you hope to build up sufficient resistance against the disease and enough reserve strength to bring about recovery.

3. Few patients can safely stand prolonged chilling of the body nor should the yirsk excessive fatigue.

4. Medical supervision of both "graduated exercise" and "special training" for the particular job will greatly contribute to the success of ex-sanitorium patients who plan to go back to work.
